Ten Little Niggers (A White Circle Crime Club) Art Deco [Paperback] Agatha Christie

A Good but fragile copy of a collectible Agatha Christie paperback. Front cover illustration is Art Deco in nature with one character in white holding a knife, another character in black holding a gun, in front of a green background. Part of the "White Circle Crime Club" series. Price on cover is 1/6 net. One inch tear to bottom of front cover along spine. Smaller closed tear along bottom edging. Wrinkling to front cover. Wear to top edge. Spine has wear and wrinkling down the length, a tear toward the lower half and wear to top causing worn spots. Slight bend to volume. Inside flyleaf has slight sunning along middle page edging. Bend to top front cover. Inside back cover are two spots where the last page was stuck to the cover. Slight ding to last page in middle where page was also stuck to back cover. Inside front cover along spine is wear from separation of cover and flyleaf. Back flyleaf has an advertisement for Cadbury's chocolate. 252 pages. Text is clean with no markings. No copyright date so date provided is a guess on my part. From title page: "Published for The Crime Club by Collins 14 St. James's Place London." From front flyleaf: "A Crime Club Detective Story. Ten people are invited to a lonely mansion on Nigger Island, off the coast of Devon, by a host who unfortunately fails to appear...ten people of whom it can truthfully be said that each one had something out of the past to hide, something perhaps of which to be ashamed. Even on that glorious summer evening of their arrival there seemed something sinister about the island, but not one could anticipate the adventure in which each and all were to be involved. A queer business...a very queer business...a diabolically clever business, devised by that incomparable writer of detective stories--Agatha Christie." This politically incorrect title was renamed: "And Then There Were None" and "Ten Little Indians."
